Contest Objective.

After almost 10 years of receiving requests from members to submit a character to use as the subject of a comic, which we had to refuse (did you bring enough for everybody?). However, Hipcomix artist Mitru, has generously offered to open a slot in his new series "Hip Gals" for an original character designed by the winner of this contest! The winner will get to see their original character in Mitru Comix new series, "The Hip Gals".

Entry Guidelines (How to enter):

Please submit the character idea to us in an acceptable reading format, (PDF, RTF, or Word). Email your entry to admin@hipcomix.com with the subject "Hip Gals Contest". Please describe the character in as much detail as you can. Name, Appearance, Weakness, Strength, Powers, costume, alter-ego (if necessary), etc. Character must be an original character, not a XXX spoof of an original character.

Contest Length:

Contest runs from now until November 3rd 2013. A winner will be chosen soon after that.

Who will Judge?

The contest will be judged by the site owner, Lewis Shepherd and Mitru, the artist that will be doing the character.

Small Print:

Contest rules are subject to change at our discretion. Most likely only when we find flaws in our method that are unintentional. We will do our best, and it is our intention to have everything be as fair as possible. There can only be one Grand prize winner, even though there are other ways of winning.

You are not required to have a membership to the site. Should you win the contest, your comic will be sent to you via email when it is completed. No purchase necessary.

We reserve the right to reject any entry for any reason whatsoever. Entries that resemble current superheroine as a spoof will not be considered for this contest. This contest is for an original character.

All entries will become property of Shepherd Productions and no other compensation other than the prizes listed, is implied, or will be given.

Since there can only be one winner of this contest, if we like your character we may use it later on. Should that occur, we will give you the same prize in exchange for use of that character. It is our assumption that that is the end goal of your submission anyway.

Character development time is unknown and depends on the amount of difficulty in putting together the character in a 3-D software. Therefore we will not announce officially a time that we will announce the winner since "ability to create" will be one of the factors of judging the contest. It may take one day, or it may take one week to create the character in the 3-D software. Therefore we will have to ask you to watch the forms until we announce a winner. In smaller words, if we decide that you're the winner, but can't make your character, we may have to name someone else winner. If that is the case, we will alert you that your character won but we can't make it, and we will give you a substitute prize.
